A remarkable city and state.

Minutes from campus, Portland's thriving downtown has something for everyone, and the state of Oregon is legendary for its beauty and recreational activities.

This area also offers plenty of ways to expand your learning opportunities because many small, mid-sized, and global companies call Portland home.

What's the weather like?

Getting Downtown

Free vans regularly leave campus on the weekends to drop off or pick up students at nearby shops, restaurants, and entertainment venues.

The local bus system, TriMet, frequently stops near campus. Licensed drivers can also “rent” Zipcars by the hour, which are available 24 hours a day on campus. The city is also serviced by ridesharing companies like Lyft and Uber.

In the City

Portland is famous for its music scene, coffee shops, art galleries, locally owned businesses, and environmental sensibility.

This community also provides easy access to internships and volunteer experiences. And Portland has been listed by Travel & Leisure magazine as “first in the nation” for its safety, public transportation, public parks, and access to the outdoors.

Out and About

Drive 90 minutes outside of Portland, and you will find an incredible variety of landscapes and activities.

Head west to explore the beaches of the Pacific Ocean, which stretch for 583 kilometers. Go to the southeast and find Mt. Hood, a year-round destination for skiers, snowboarders, and hikers. Even closer to Portland is the Columbia River Gorge, a national scenic area, perfect for windsurfing, hiking, photography, and more.

“University of Portland has such an amazing community. The small class sizes allow for students to have closer contact with their professors and other students. Along with academics, I have also enjoyed being involved with Campus Ministry and the chapel choir, volunteering through the Moreau Center, and working as a photographer for the yearbook. My experiences on The Bluff have helped me discover what I’m really passionate about. After I graduate, I want to find better ways to improve intercultural communication in the classroom either through teaching or attending graduate school to explore second language learning.”

Intimate Classes. Innovative Programs.

At University of Portland, academic options abound. We offer about 1,400 courses, 40 majors, 33 minors, and 16 graduate degrees. We are the only university in Oregon to offer Schools of Business, Education, Engineering, and Nursing, a College of Arts and Sciences, and a Graduate School.

SOLID FOUNDATION

As a Catholic university, we believe in educating the whole person—for life. We want every student to think critically, communicate effectively, and consider ethical implications. This means that all undergraduate students, regardless of major, take 13 core courses in the humanities, sciences, and social sciences. And graduate students will find that all programs of study emphasize not only technical knowledge and skills but also leadership, ethics, and a global perspective.

GREAT PROFESSORS

Our professors are nationally recognized for their teaching skills, and it shows in what they do every day. Faculty will challenge you to think in new ways, and the learning experience here takes advantage of the many resources at hand—from trips to Oregon's mountains and beaches to experimenting with state-of-the-art technology in our labs, as well as our Trading Room, which has nine Bloomberg terminals.

PERSONAL CONNECTION

Our 12:1 student-faculty ratio means you get to know your classmates and professors well, which will help you make strong personal connections while you develop your expertise. Smaller class sizes also mean it's easier to ask questions and participate in class discussions.

COMMITTED CLASSMATES

Students here are motivated and thrive in an environment that believes in collaboration and diversity. Students come to The Bluff from almost every state in the nation and over 40 countries around the globe. They're bright, too, with students annually competing for Rhodes, Marshall, Truman, Fulbright, and other international merit scholarships.

Life on The Bluff

It's easy to meet people and get involved when you join a community of more than 240 professors and 4,200 students, who come from 46 states and 43 countries. Our campus, also known as The Bluff, offers NCAA Division I sports, musical performances, movies, guest lectures, theater shows, spiritual retreats, athletic classes and competitions, volunteer opportunities, and much more.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT SERVICES

Centrally located on campus, the office of International Student Services assists more than 150 students from around the globe. It is a place where you will have access to a global student center, group activities, and friendly faces to help answer questions. Our staff also helps students with immigration, travel, employment, and personal and academic questions.

DINING ON CAMPUS

Bauccio Commons, our main dining hall, offers a range of options—from soups and salads to pizza, sandwiches, and rotating entrées made from scratch, as well as coffee and snacks. Across campus, the Anchor offers a range of “grab-and-go” items. And right in the middle is a student favorite, our newly remodeled Pilot House—home to a grill, small market, comfortable seating, pub, and stage for live entertainment.

RESIDENCE LIFE

Living on campus means you have easy access to academics and activities and a community of friends. Each year, more than 2,200 students choose to live on campus in one of ten halls. The University also owns 30 off-campus houses in the safe and quiet neighborhood nearby.

JOIN IN

There are more than 90 student-run clubs that you can join, including the International Club, College Ecology Club, or Latin Dance. Campus Ministry provides spiritual counseling, retreats, and workshops for students of all faiths. The Moreau Center offers a host of volunteer and leadership opportunities. The Beauchamp Recreation and Wellness Center is a two-story, 6,782 square meters facility featuring cardio machines, weights, three basketball courts, an indoor track, and multiple studios for exercise classes and training.

COUNTRIES REPRESENTED by international students

"The student community at UP has been so supportive and engaging, and I have enjoyed participating in campus life and student activities. I play intramural soccer and am a member of the Saudi Students Association, the International Club, and Black Student Union. I was also a senator and diversity coordinator in UP's student government, ASUP. These activities have given me the opportunity to socialize and work on my public speaking skills. As a senator, I talked to my fellow students and reported back their needs and concerns to the ASUP executive board. We all worked together to make UP a fun, diverse, and inclusive community."

At University of Portland, we wonder.

About the systems and theories that shape our thinking. About all the hours in the day and how to best spend them. About our ideas and beliefs and those of others.

Our continual search for knowledge allows us to go deeper. To shine light in a new direction. We're here not to simply absorb information and get a degree. We are here to accomplish much more.

As a comprehensive Catholic university, grounded in the liberal arts, we dive into details, test beliefs, tap the power of a well-placed question, and embrace a culture of curiosity.

That's how we discover not only what's out there, but also what lies within ourselves.

It's what we do best here on The Bluff and out in the world.
