COMMENCEMENT I SPEAKER

Marla Salmon

Forest Park, WA

Marla Salmon '71, '72, '93, '99 received the American Academy of Nursing's highest honor when she was recognized as a Living Legend in the field of nursing in the fall of 2021. She is indeed a living legend. A leader in the field for decades, Salmon's impact on health policies, health education, and the entire field of nursing as a profession is national and global in scope. Salmon served as the director of the Division of Nursing with the US Department of Health and Human Services and held dean positions at Emory University and University of Washington. She was also a member of the Clinton White House Task Force on Healthcare Reform and the chair of the World Health Organization's Global Advisory Group on Nursing and Midwifery. She continues to teach as a professor of nursing and global health, and as adjunct professor of public policy and governance at UW. But for all these major achievements, Salmon remains a humble, keen observer. She sees the stresses on nurses today, and says she has shifted her mode of teaching to individual coaching, knowing people are bringing such vastly different experiences and crises to their learning at the moment. When she reflects on her education at University of Portland, she speaks to what she calls the time-transcending, discipline-blending gifts that she feels her education offered her. She learned to ask hard questions here and as a nursing/political science major, she was encouraged to follow those questions into a public policy nursing career that brought those questions to bear. "UP allowed me to put nursing in a broad context," she says, "and I saw it as a source of public good." In the northern agricultural California town where she grew up, she became attuned to certain injustices—the mistreatment of migrant workers and the long-term consequences of the World War II detention centers on the livelihoods of Japanese American family friends. Her UP education gave her guideposts for leadership—she was a student Board of Regents member—and a goal to be unapologetic about doing good. Her professors (dean V.J. Huffman in particular) encouraged her to dare to think big and imaginatively: Why not apply for that Fulbright? Why not apply to be an observer of the World Health Organization? She did earn that Fulbright and she did go to Geneva, Switzerland, for the WHO assembly as a student observer during the cholera epidemic. She watched the proceedings from up in the gallery looking down at the assembled officials. Years later, she was among the officials looking up, with a firm understanding of how she got there. Her amazing journey fills her with gratitude for her husband, Jerry Anderson; her children and parents; and God.

COMMENCEMENT II AND III SPEAKER

Kunal Nayyar '03

Los Angeles, California

---

It all began with a college crush and a bright idea. Back when Kunal Nayyar was a University of Portland business major, he'd fallen for a girl in the theater program. So, he hatched a simple plan: Audition for a play, win a role, spend lots of quality rehearsal time with the girl. "The funny thing is," Nayyar says now, "I fell out of love with her, and fell in love with my one true love—acting." By that first college theater audition, Nayyar had already shown a penchant for trying new things. At 18, he left his home in New Delhi, India, landing seven thousand miles away in Portland to experience the U.S. for the first time. He relished "creating a family away from family, surrounded by different cultures, ethnicities, and religions, supporting each other as we navigated through college." Nayyar bonded with professors he remains close to 20 years later. He fondly remembers his job in UP housekeeping, attending international student events, playing intramural sports, and singing at coffee house nights. "The greatest experience I had at UP was my ability to participate in a variety of activities," he says. "It culminated in a very fulfilling time at school that I miss to this day." By the time he earned a UP business degree in 2003, Nayyar was well on his way as an actor. He added a master's in fine arts from Temple University, and in 2007 landed a starring role in The Big Bang Theory—the number one sitcom on television for much of its 12-year run. Nayyar reflects on playing astrophysicist Rajesh 'Raj' Koothrappali in the CBS comedy "with an immense sense of pride, gratitude and humility for what we accomplished, and how lucky we all were to be on that show." Post-Big Bang acting life involves various projects, but these days, he says, work takes a backseat and family is his top priority. Nayyar and his wife Neha are committed to using their platform to give back, which includes their generous gift of scholarships for UP students in Performing & Fine Arts, as well as funding guest artists and UP's annual trip to the American College Theater Festival. He wants to see young actors complete their educations and pursue their dreams, like he did. "I love what I do," he says. "Regardless of the destination, it is important to love the journey. Love what you do. Let the universe decide the rest."

CHRISTUS MAGISTER MEDAL

Thomas M. Landy
Dedham, MA

Thomas Landy is at once an influential Catholic educator whose work has strengthened the bedrock of lay educators in Catholic higher education throughout the United States, and a humble scholar of the wonder and diversity of global Catholic cultures. At a time when start-ups come and go, Landy has a unique ability to build educational initiatives with staying power. In 1991, he founded Collegium, a consortium of more than 60 North American Catholic colleges and universities, with the goal of developing the faith and intellectual life of lay educators. The reason? He'd seen the trends. Vocations were decreasing, as were educators who had taken religious vows. There needed to be an effort to engage the next generation of educational leaders in Catholic higher education. So, he set about creating that engagement. More than 30 years later, Collegium is still going strong, with programming throughout the year and an annual colloquy, where faculty of varying religious backgrounds and disciplines gather for soul-nourishing fellowship and learning. Many University of Portland professors and academic leaders have reaped the benefits of this summer conference. Landy's second "start-up" is the website Catholics & Cultures (catholicsandcultures.org), which he created in 2015 as an outgrowth of his ethnographic research in more than 30 countries. It serves as a resource for educators in the United States who may want to teach about the ways in which culture manifests in Catholic practices throughout the world. Landy is keenly interested in how lay people live their Catholic faith within their culture. A few examples: The church in Ethiopia is as old as Rome and has its own distinct traditions built up independently across millennia, including a liturgy that can last three hours and the incorporation of the Ge'ez language not dissimilar to the use of Latin before Vatican II. In Yap, an island state of the Federated States of Micronesia, Holy Thursday involves a vigil of mourning songs before the cross. In a desert region of northern Chile, a summertime 24-hour dance tradition with elaborate costumes honors the Virgen del Carmen. At present, Landy is the director of the Rev. Michael C. McFarland, SJ Center for Religion, Ethics, and Culture at the College of the Holy Cross in Massachusetts, where he runs a timely discussion series that responds to the pressing concerns of the moment. He and his partner, Phillip Petree, live in a suburb of Boston.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

Melody L. Routley
Milwaukie, Oregon

While it is not in Melody Routley's nature to brag about the ways she has championed the UP School of Nursing over the years, Casey Shillam, the school's dean, is happy to fill us in. "Melody has been a longtime partner—a thought-leader in creating innovative solutions," says Shillam. "She brings an unparalleled view of nursing in Oregon." As Kaiser Permanente's Transition-to-Practice Program Manager, Routley is a key ally for Oregon and Southwest Washington nursing graduates pursuing careers in clinical care—primarily non-hospital, outpatient services. She designed Kaiser's regional RN Residency program that transitions nursing graduates into skilled, competent professionals working in very complex environments. While hospitals are a primary proving ground for many nursing graduates, UP's redesigned curriculum promotes ambulatory (in-patient) nursing practice, Routley says. "I am pleased to say we have hired a lot of UP School of Nursing grads in the ambulatory care space. I'm very proud of the program." Routley came to Oregon from rural Wyoming in 1999 with a nursing degree and a passion for the basic human right of universal health care. She says building Kaiser Permanente's ambulatory nursing program from the ground up required "a lot of culture-shifting and asking, 'why not?'" Ambulatory care nurses are in the passenger seat with a patient over a period of months or years, helping them navigate toward health and healing, far beyond the one- or two-shift interactions in a typical hospital setting. The stakes are higher, as nurses providing ambulatory care are committed to preventing catastrophic health problems and the financial hardships that may follow. "There's something to be said for that quiet hero managing somebody's blood pressure so that they don't have a stroke later and lose their abilities," says Routley. "Placing graduate nurses who are excited to work in that space just gives me joy." In 2021, the coordinated, statewide effort to administer COVID-19 vaccinations tested Routley's leadership and experience. She served as a lead trainer at the Oregon Convention Center Mass Vaccination Center, which included the emergency complex integration of UP nursing students to administer vaccines. "It was wonderful to walk into a mass vaccination center and see University of Portland students connecting with patients, helping them get through a very scary situation," says Routley. "And it gave me hope that public health will be a piece of who they are as they graduate."

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

Winifred V. Quinn

Wall Township, New Jersey

In 1995, as Winifred Quinn worked on her master's degree, she took care of her mother, Anne, who was losing a lifelong battle with chronic illness. Near the end, Anne begged her daughter not to place her in a nursing home. The family struggled to fulfill Anne's wishes, hamstrung by state policies that devalued family home health care. "That started my career in advocacy and health care policy," says Quinn, who would go on to receive her PhD in Health Communication from Rutgers University. "If older adults and people with disabilities prefer to receive care and services in their homes, I believe they should be able to do so." More than a quarter century later, as Director of Advocacy and Consumer Affairs for the Center to Champion Nursing in America, Quinn has helped 82 million people "and counting" find better access to health care. Since joining forces with the AARP national office in 2008, her painstaking work shaping public policy has paid gradual dividends. The number of U.S. states granting registered nurses more authority for in-home practice has more than doubled. Eleven states have improved patients' access to care by recognizing nurse practitioners' full practice authority, while others have made substantial advancements. "We've built some pretty strong coalitions in many states," says Quinn. "We've been able to secure meaningful wins." As co-leader of The Future of Nursing: Campaign for Action, an initiative through AARP, AARP Foundation, and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Quinn draws daily inspiration watching nurses honor people's dignity with excellent clinical care. They're often the hidden heroes in hospitals, she says, and her appreciation extends to college graduates just entering the demanding field. "What I do is easy," says Quinn, pausing to collect her emotions. "Nurses put their lives on the line. If you didn't know it before COVID, this pandemic educated the world on what nurses do. They're right there on the front lines, providing excellent care." Four years after Quinn's mother passed away, her father, Jim, was very ill. In the ICU, Jim resisted as a nurse struggled to place an IV into his arm. The nurse, who had once treated her mother, told Quinn: "I could restrain your father's arm and get the needle in. But your father never wanted your mother to be restrained, so I don't want to restrain your father." Memories and moments like this—small measures of patient dignity—motivate Quinn as a dedicated advocate. "Mostly what I want to tell nurses, time and time again, is 'thank you.'"

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

Gloria Purvis

Washington, DC

Gloria Purvis is a Catholic media commentator, author, and the host and executive producer of The Gloria Purvis Podcast in collaboration with America Media, a podcast that aims to “foster a culture of charitable dialogue.” Through her media presence, she has been a strong Catholic voice for life issues and racial justice. She uses her firm pro-life lens as a way to speak to the sin of racism and as her reason for saying clearly that Black lives do matter and that all people are made in the image and likeness of God. No exceptions. She believes that there are no conditions to human dignity. In a New York Times piece, she was quoted as saying, George Floyd “had a right to life. But he also had a right to a natural death.” She speaks the truth because she feels it is what the Lord is calling her to do, even if it means challenging people and the institution of the Church to grow. A convert to Catholicism after a mystical experience at the age of 12, she is originally from Charleston, South Carolina. There is a relatively small Catholic population there, and an even smaller Black Catholic population. Recently, on her podcast, she spoke to the only African American Jesuit currently in formation in the entire world. How and why is the Black Catholic population only at 3 percent in the US? It is something for the institution, clergy, and Catholic lay people to reckon with, and Purvis is ready to speak the truth, with a focus on Christ, as this reckoning continues. A third order Carmelite, Purvis is a layperson who keeps hours and participates in the order’s charism of prayer. “I talk to the Lord a lot,” she says. A wife and mother, she balances the hard work through prayer, laughter, and by enjoying life. “I already know the victory has already been won. Christ won,” she says. “The history of my people, people held in enslavement, stolen from Africa... I am journeying toward that freedom. I have the strength of my ancestors. I have a will to survive. And I trust in the power of God. I have seen it.” Purvis has served on the National Black Catholic Congress’s Leadership Commission on Social Justice, and she is the inaugural Pastoral Fellow for the University of Notre Dame’s Office of Life and Human Dignity at the McGrath Institute for Church Life.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

Rev. Richard F. Berg, C.S.C.
Portland, OR

Fr. Richard Berg, CSC, '54, '69 lives the gospel in concrete ways. When he was a young priest teaching at a Texas university, a man struggling with unemployment and the effects of drug use asked Fr. Berg, "Do you think you could take care of me?" What did Fr. Berg do? He took the man under his roof and worked with him until he found work and healing. Out of this interaction, what Fr. Berg calls a "community of caring" began, an ecumenical community for men, women, and families. This idea of a community of caring, in one way or another, is a persistent thread through Fr. Berg's life and career. A Portland native, Fr. Berg attended Columbia Prep. He later went to Notre Dame and became a priest in Rome in 1963, during Vatican II. The day after Berg's ordination, Pope John XXIII asked Fr. Berg to offer him a blessing, Berg's first as an ordained priest. A pretty cool way to start things. Berg earned a doctorate in psychology at UP, later taught psychology, neuropsychology, and whole-person healing, and eventually became Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences for 13 years. While he was dean, he was asked to take on another not-small job as the pastor of St. Andre Bessette Downtown Chapel. Fr. Berg said yes. Then he asked for God's help. He began to see the isolation that many experiencing mental illness and urban poverty were feeling. In response, he founded Maybelle Center for Community in Northwest Portland, an assisted living facility to care for those who could not live independently, and the first Medicaid-only residence of its kind in the US. Since 2001, Fr. Berg has served as the chaplain at Mary's Woods, a local retirement community. Never in his wildest dreams would he have thought he'd need to teach a nurse how to perform the anointing of the sick over Zoom, but the pandemic made such partnerships necessary. Some of his recent work has involved walking with veterans who suffer from PTSD. He has turned some of their narratives into a book called SCARS, the Effect of PTSD on Family, Work, and Relationships; he is working with a screenwriter to adapt the book into a feature film. Fr. Berg is 85 years old, and he will never stop working for God. He is an example and an immense blessing to University of Portland.

CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

Mary R. Boyle
Portland, Oregon

---

Mary R. Boyle, a community leader and philanthropist, credits her parents with teaching her the importance of giving back to one's community. A Portland-area native, she grew up in a home where it was the norm to deliver food baskets at the holidays and where her mom used her skills to create costumes for high school and collegiate theater productions. They also taught her the foundational value of the arts and of education. She calls her Catholic education "the greatest gift my parents gave me. It broadened my hope and my faith and my friendships." Much of her work has involved paying this gift forward. She serves on the board of De La Salle North Catholic High School, a college preparatory high school for underserved students in the Portland area and the most diverse private high school in all of Oregon. She recently chaired a successful 30-month, $26 million capital campaign to create the De La Salle North Catholic campus, with room for more than 350 students. The work is a labor of love and the love is for students and an abiding hope in their achievements and success. Education, she believes, is "the one thing you can give and it can never be taken away." At University of Portland, where she currently serves on the Board of Regents, she also loves working with students.

They are, she says rightly, the school's "heartbeat." She also particularly loves what the Moreau Center for Service and Justice brings to the school. In the past, Boyle has also served on the boards at St. Mary's Academy and Jesuit High School, among other institutions. In addition to her service at UP, she is also on the board of the Portland Art Museum and Northwest Film Center. When she went to University of Oregon, she majored in art and print making. She and her husband, Tim Boyle, president and CEO of Columbia Sportswear, have together received the University of Oregon Pioneer Award. Much of their joint philanthropic giving—in terms of educational initiatives and science and medical research—has been an outgrowth of their steadfast love of their family and love of their home, Portland. Boyle noted a few recent experiences that made her feel closer to UP than ever before. Not only did she enlist the expertise of a talented UP graduate-educator for her grandchildren during the pandemic, but she also recently had occasion to meet a UP nurse alumna. The nurse told Boyle that her four children also went to UP and they had also chosen nursing as a career path. The impact of University of Portland on the fabric of Portland was apparent. "I felt so proud," Boyle says.

The James Culligan Award

This award, established in 1953 in memory of a dedicated servant of the University, is presented annually by the University to a faculty member in recognition of distinguished service inside the classroom and in the larger University community. Winners of the Culligan Award wear the medal with their academic regalia, as a sign of the University's highest faculty honor, and the University proudly confers upon them, during the Commencement ceremony itself, its premier honor for creativity, diligence, service, collegiality, and vision.

The University's History

A Brief History of the University

Tradition has it that when Reverend Alexander Christie was appointed Archbishop of Portland in 1898, he had a vision for a university. While traveling aboard a ship along the Willamette River, Christie noticed a large brick building atop Waud's Bluff. When he learned that it was the site of the defunct Portland University founded by the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1891, Christie decided to purchase it (with financial assistance from the Congregation of Holy Cross) for the school of his vision. He named it "Columbia University" after the mighty river, and when it opened its doors on September 5, 1901, it was staffed with priests from the archdiocese. Christie realized that his school needed more support, so he approached the Congregation of Holy Cross's Indiana Province, and the following September they assumed ownership. Christie's vision had special meaning to the C.S.C.s. In 1841 several members of their order traveled from France to Indiana, where they founded the University of Notre Dame. Their success assured Christie that his own vision would one day be realized. In 1925, the College of Arts and Sciences was founded. In the 1930s, the University's name was changed to the University of Portland, the St. Vincent Hospital School of Nursing joined the University as the College of Nursing, and the School of Business was created. In 1948, the School of Engineering was created, followed by the Graduate School in 1950 and the School of Education in 1962. In 1967 the Congregation of Holy Cross order transferred ownership of the University to a lay Board of Regents.

Today, UP is Oregon's largest private and the state's only Catholic university. It also is Oregon's only comprehensive university with schools of business, education, engineering, nursing, a College of Arts and Sciences, and a graduate school. There are more than 40 undergraduate programs and 30 minors, as well as 18 graduate programs, and more than 1,300 courses. For 26 consecutive years, the University has earned a top-10 ranking by US News & World Report in the "Regional Universities – West" classification, including the Number 3 spot in the 2021 rankings. And for three consecutive years, Bloomberg Businessweek has named University of Portland the top school in Oregon for "return on investment" in a state-by-state ranking of schools providing graduates with the most return for the price of their education. The Bluff is home to nearly 4,000 students and nearly 300 full-time faculty.

The University's Mission and Alumni

The University's Mission

The University of Portland, an independently governed Catholic university guided by the Congregation of Holy Cross, addresses significant questions of human concern through studies of the arts, sciences, and humanities. As a diverse community of scholars dedicated to excellence and innovation, we pursue teaching and learning, faith and formation, service and leadership in the classroom, residence halls, and the world. Because we value the development of the whole person, the University honors faith and reason as ways of knowing, promotes ethical reflection, and prepares people who respond to the needs of the world and its human family.

The University's Alumni

"Our students are destined to live in the business and problems of the world. So they should not be made to live a type of life that they would have to abandon when they leave our institution. They should be trained in such a way that they may be everywhere what they were in school."

~Blessed Basil Moreau

As our University of Portland alumni family grows with each graduation class, your new journey begins. The joy, successes, and challenges you may encounter will ebb and flow. Your lived experience may take you to faraway places or keep you near The Bluff. UP alumni are leaders in community, service, teaching, and faith who impact the world around them. No matter where life takes you, our UP community is always present. As newly minted alumni, you are integral to that feeling of one community that is connected, not merely by our proximity, but by our care for one another.

Coat of Arms/Chain of Office/Memorial Mace/
Christus Magister Medal

The Coat of Arms

The historic green shield of the University of Portland bears a silver cross moline and crossed anchors. Beneath the cross and anchors are six wavy bars of silver and blue, and an open book with gold clasps. This is an adaptation of the arms of the Congregation of Holy Cross and the city of Portland. The motto, Veritas vos liberabit ("The truth will set you free") is on an escroll under the shield. Flanking the coat of arms are oak and laurel, symbols of strength and success.

Chain of Office

The President's Chain of Office is the symbol of unity the university forges from its diverse communities. Six medallions represent the major constituencies of the University: the State of Oregon, the Alumni, the Students, the Faculty, the Congregation of Holy Cross, and the Board of Regents. Tying them together is the heptagon displaying the symbol of the City of Roses and Mt. Hood. Rising over Mt. Hood is the Morning Star, symbolic of Mary, Mother of the Word Incarnate, patroness of the University. The heptagon is also representative of the Trivium and the Quadrivium, the curricula of the medieval university. At the bottom of the chain is the Coat of Arms of the University of Portland. The connecting links are cast in the shape of roots and branches of the rose.

The Brother Godfrey Vassallo, C.S.C., Memorial Mace

The ceremonial mace is a traditional emblem at institutions of higher learning in academic processions. At the University of Portland, a mace made of polished myrtle wood with bronze trim was commissioned in honor of Brother Godfrey, who served as Grand Marshal for many years. It was used for the first time at the 75th commencement in 1977. The cross at the top symbolizes the founding of the University as a Christian institution. Metal plates bear the names of all University of Portland presidents and the name of the mace.

The Christus Magister Medal

The Christus Magister Medal is awarded annually to men and women of international distinction. Recipients have evinced a vigorous spiritual life and an accomplished career that has significantly advanced knowledge, been of inimitable service to humanity, and been an inspiration and consolation to the world. It is the University's highest honor, conferred upon those whose lives have illustrated and enhanced the University's mission.

Academic Dress and Procession and Nursing Pin

The history of academic dress dates back to the Middle Ages when many of the scholars were also clerics and wore the costume of the monastic orders. In 1321, the University of Cambridge adopted specific styles and color combinations for its faculties. American colleges and universities desired to adopt a standard code of academic dress, and at a conference held at Columbia University in 1895, representatives from various institutions adopted a code and regulations governing academic dress for colleges and universities in the United States. The standards continue to be followed by the American Council on Education.

The costumes worn today are all traditional and their colors, trimmings, and patterns interpret the degree, the field of learning, and the institution that conferred the degree. The type of degree (bachelor's, master's, doctor's) is indicated by the width of the velvet edging and the length of the hood, the doctor's hood being the longest and of fuller shape than the others. The color of the velvet edging denotes the field of learning and the colors of the lining denote the school which conferred the degree.

The color of the tassel, worn on the left side of the mortarboard, also indicates the field of study and is gold for those with doctor's degrees. The colors you will see today in the hoods and gowns of our faculty represent the various fields of learning:

white, Arts, Letters and Humanities;
drab, Business;

light blue, Education;
orange, Engineering;
brown, Fine Arts;
purple, Law;
lemon yellow,
Library Science;
pink, Music;
apricot, Nursing;
dark blue, Philosophy;
golden yellow, Science;
scarlet, Theology.

The academic procession is led by the Grand Marshal, a faculty member appointed by the President. A traditional order of procession is followed: First come the candidates for degrees according to the order in which the degrees are to be conferred; next, members of the faculty led by the Faculty Marshal; and finally the honorary degree recipients and other members of the platform party, followed by the President of the University. The order is reversed for the recessional.

Nursing Pins

Nursing pins, once called badges, have long been a special symbol of where nurses are educated. The pin was worn prominently on the nursing uniform and is a lasting symbol of pride for the wearer, representing the high standards of the nursing school. University of Portland's pin has the date of the school's founding (1934). The crown, heart, and letter M represent the Immaculate Heart of Mary; the cross represents the Congregation of the Holy Cross; the open book represents knowledge and learning, and the trees and mountains represent our beautiful Pacific Northwest surroundings.

America, The Beautiful

O beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood,
From sea to shining sea!
