What is the Entrepreneur Scholars Program?

The Entrepreneur Scholars Program is a campus-wide, innovative program to help you design and implement a world-class venture — to achieve something you have only, at this point, dreamed of doing. The mission of the program is to enable high potential students to transform entrepreneurial ideas into reality. Upon graduating alums reach higher levels of success than they ever imagined possible.

The Entrepreneur Scholars Program is limited to a maximum of 25 students each year and is open to students from all disciplines. Each Entrepreneur Scholar pays an additional program fee for this unique experience that combines the classroom with international travel and opportunities to meet world-class entrepreneurs. The fee helps cover the expenses of academic materials, travel, lodging and some meals. Through the generosity of individuals and corporate donors scholarships are available to eligible students.

The Entrepreneur Scholars Program has received the Innovation and Creative Education Award from the Academy of Educational Leadership, as well as the National Model Specialty Entrepreneurship Program Award from the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship, and is the only program to have done so twice!.

Leadership

Robin Anderson, former Dean of the Pamplin School of Business and the Robert W. Franz Chair in Entrepreneurship, created the Entrepreneur Scholars Program. Under Dr. Anderson's guidance the University of Portland has been nationally ranked for its entrepreneurial programs.

The Courses in the Program

Creating a World-Class Venture (ENT 480):

You will work independently and in groups to develop your ideas and create your venture. The structure of the Entrepreneur Scholars Program guides you from the inception of a business idea to its creation and implementation. You will meet with top experts in the field related to your new venture to gain further information and insight on how to successfully approach venture creation.

Your learning plan will be based on your strengths and will focus directly on your business idea. Examples include networking with business leaders who can assist in the promotion of the business idea, researching best practices and current trends in the industry, attending trade conferences, and further developing your business plan and market research.

The Entrepreneur Apprenticeship (ENT 481):

During this phase of the Entrepreneur Scholars Program, you will transform your business ideas into a working entity with the help of business mentors, through a structured apprenticeship.

Global Entrepreneurship (ENT 482):

The program includes a trip outside of the United States to give you the opportunity to experience how new businesses are created in other countries. Once our destinations are determined you will and make your own business appointments. You will learn and practice entrepreneurship across borders.

E-Scholar Destinations

Past international experiences have included business trips to Australia, Brazil, Chile, China, Korea, Israel, Malaysia, Poland, Russia, Singapore, South Africa, Italy, United Arab Emirates, Ukraine, and Vietnam. National trips each year include travel to meet entrepreneurs in New York City and Denver, as well as other major centers like Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.
