Meet the staff from the Career Center, the Moreau Center for Service and Justice, the office of Alumni and Parent Relations, and the office of Undergraduate Scholarly Engagement. They will share useful information and tips for creating a plan of your own. Leave with ideas and practical steps to take between now and graduation weekend.

10:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m.
Academic Showcase

Learn more about the academic accomplishments of the junior year. Different sessions will be available for each of the academic disciplines. Regardless of which session you attend, you will have a wonderful opportunity to engage in the academic life of the campus.

College of Arts and Sciences / Buckley Center Auditorium

Enjoy a warm welcome from the dean of the College and be inspired by several thought-provoking presentations on research concerning interesting and timely subjects presented by expert faculty and students in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. This presentation will provide an opportunity to gain insights into how three different CAS disciplines reflect on teaching and apply their own learning to advance the growth of our students. After the presentations, we invite you to ask questions and meet informally with the faculty presenters and the dean.

Pamplin School of Business / Bauccio Commons Board Room

Please join members of the PSOBA faculty and staff who will present highlights of P4 (our Pamplin Professional Preparation Program), including information about our junior year internship requirement and our senior year P4 components designed to prepare our students to enter the workforce. These components include our Leadership Speaker Series, the senior service learning experience, and post-graduate and study abroad opportunities.

School of Education / Franz Hall Room 120

The School of Education invites family members to a student-led panel and discussion of the senior professional year experience, preparation to enter the first teaching position, and post-graduate opportunities. There will also be an opportunity for general Q&A with the dean and administrative staff.

School of Nursing / Buckley Center Room 306

University of Portland's School of Nursing features a newly remodeled, state of the art Simulated Health Center, providing an environment for student centered experiential learning. Here, students learn and practice the psychomotor and cognitive skills of patient assessment and nursing intervention. Students then apply these skills in complex, simulated patient care scenarios using high-fidelity "patients" and realistic hospital equipment. Simulation provides our students with a safe and controlled space to practice and hone their clinical care throughout the nursing program. Come take a guided tour and witness this process in action!

Shiley School of Engineering / Shiley Hall Foyer

Junior engineering and computer science students will gather in the first-floor foyer of Shiley Hall. Juniors students will escort their parents throughout Shiley Hall to see and learn about the hands-on laboratories and other projects that students are experiencing. Various faculty members will be available in the labs to answer questions about the junior year and what's ahead for senior year.
